

James H. Washington

Air Traffic Organization

Vice President, Flight Services

As the Air Traffic Organization's Vice President for Flight Services, Jim Washington is responsible for the delivery of flight advisory services to the customer. This includes daily operation, modernization, and financial management of the flight service station program.

Washington has been with the Department of Transportation (DOT) and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for 26 years. He began his federal career as a Presidential Management Intern with the DOT and has served the FAA in various management positions in the Alaskan and Great Lakes Regions.

Washington was the Acting Associate Administrator for Airports at FAA headquarters in 1996. Most recently, he served as the FAA's Director of Air Traffic System Requirements.

Washington has received many performance and achievement awards, including the Department of Transportation Secretary's Award for Outstanding Achievement in Equal Employment Opportunity and the William A. Jump Memorial Award.

He is a graduate of Dartmouth College and received a master's degree in public administration from Syracuse University's Maxwell School of Public Administration. He also spent time at the University of Granada's Language Study Abroad program. Washington is a member of the American Society for Public Administration and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.